The Florida State Courts System and the Florida Office of the Governor received the national award for the best showcasing of National Drug Court Month during the 2001 National Association of Drug Court Professionals’ Annual Conference in New Orleans. Florida was recognized for the highly successful May 17, 2001 State-wide Drug Court Graduation, which was video streamed through the Internet and the Florida State Courts System’s state of the art video-conferencing network.

Judge Melanie May’s Drug Court in Broward County was the host site for this year’s graduation. Chief Justice Charles T. Wells gave congratulatory remarks from the Supreme Court in Tallahassee to all the drug court graduates participating from jurisdictions in Bartow, Ft. Lauderdale, Fort Myers, Jacksonville, Miami, Tampa, and Rockledge.

Florida Governor Jeb Bush attended the graduation in Ft. Lauderdale where his remarks were broadcast statewide. While at the graduation, Governor Bush signed into law HB 199, the key legislation passed during the 2001 Legislative Session that lays the foundation for institutionalizing drug courts in the state of Florida. Trovillion were also present for the signing. The event was a true collaboration of the three branches of government and a good example of how technology can be used to unify events held across the state.

Court technology officers and drug court coordinators who hosted graduations and coordinated events to celebrate National Drug Court Month played a key part in Florida’s national recognition. In addition, many staff members from the Office of the State Courts Administrator were instrumental in making the statewide graduation a success, including John Cook, Hanna Watson, Rodger Reynolds, and Debbie Hoard from Information Systems Services and Jennifer Grandal from Court Services.

The Broward County Drug Court team did a fantastic job coordinating the logistics of the Governor’s visit and the technical aspects of the statewide graduation. The following individuals made it happen—Judge Melanie May, Broward County Drug Court Judge; Carol Ortman, Trial Court Administrator; Dixie Knoebel, Senior Deputy Courts Administrator; Sunil Nemade, Chief Technology Officer; Craig Burger, Director of Video Operations; Gayle Clewis, Juvenile Drug Court Coordinator; and Gary Hilko, Adult Drug Court Coordinator.

In addition to the statewide graduation, numerous other activities took place in recognition of National Drug Court Month including:

- The creation and distribution of a videotape to each drug court program, which included congratulatory remarks from Chief Justice Wells and Governor Bush. The remarks were purposefully generic in nature so that the videotape could routinely be used during any future drug court graduations.

- A joint proclamation, declaring the month of May as National Drug Court Month in the State of Florida, was signed by Chief Justice Wells and Governor Bush. A number of programs also adopted resolutions, and published press releases and news articles with local media and law related publications.

- The Broward County juvenile and adult drug court participants and staff participated in a “Beach Clean-Up” in Ft. Lauderdale and the juvenile drug court created a 25 foot banner featuring interlocking hand prints of the drug court team and participants to symbolize “Drug Free Hands Across Broward County.”

- The Bay County Drug Court held a “Picnic in the Park” in Panama City for their graduation which included family games and activities, food and refreshments, along with guest speakers.

All drug courts are encouraged to participate in celebrating National Drug Court Month. The Third Annual Statewide Drug Court Graduation will be hosted by the Miami Drug Court on May 17, 2002. Participation in the statewide graduation is an excellent opportunity for Florida’s drug courts to showcase the collaboration and commitment among the state’s programs.

District Court of Appeal Budget Commission Formed

by Dorothy P. Burke, Budget Analyst, OSCA

On March 15, 2001, the Supreme Court issued opinion SC01-87 amending the Rules of Judicial Administration and establishing the District Court of Appeal Budget Commission (DCABC), effective July 1, 2001. The role and function of the DCABC is to provide a forum for appellate court representatives to review funding issues and priorities for the district courts of appeal so that all court officers and personnel can make collaborative decisions on legislative funding proposals for the intermediate appellate courts. The Commission will also be responsible for adopting policies and procedures for the development and administration of the five district court budgets in a manner which ensures equity and fairness in state funding.

Beginning in 2001, the judicial branch must submit a long-range program plan to the Legislature. This requirement will result in changes to budget request development and justification, and will require the inclusion of information about the impact of budget reductions. The DCABC will review and make recommendations to the Supreme Court on the components of the long-range program plan involving the district courts of appeal.

The Commission consists of nine members. On June 8, 2001, by administrative order, Chief Justice Charles Wells made appointments to the Commission as follows:

July 1, 2001 to June 30, 2003

The Honorable John Blue
Chief Judge, Second District Court of Appeal

Ms. Dottie Tutt
Deputy Marshal, Third District Court of Appeal

Ms. Marilyn Beuttenmuller
Clerk, Fourth District Court of Appeal

July 1, 2001 to June 30, 2005

The Honorable Emerson Thompson, Jr.
Chief Judge, Fifth District Court of Appeal

The Honorable Alan R. Schwartz
Chief Judge, Third District Court of Appeal

Mr. Jon Wheeler
Clerk, First District Court of Appeal

July 1, 2001 to June 30, 2007

The Honorable Martha Warner
Judge, Fourth District Court of Appeal

The Honorable Michael E. Allen
Chief Judge, First District Court of Appeal

Mr. Ty Berdeaux
Marshal, Fifth District Court of Appeal

Chief Judge Emerson Thompson, Jr., shall serve as Chair. Chief Judge Michael Allen shall serve as Vice-Chair, and Justice Barbara J. Pariente shall serve as Supreme Court Liaison from July 1, 2001, to June 30, 2003. The Commission’s first meeting was held in June and a second was held on August 1, for review of legislative budget requests.

Florida Supreme Court Issues Opinion on Family Courts

In a May 3, 2001 unanimous opinion, the Florida Supreme Court reaffirmed its commitment to its earlier family court opinions, stating that “our goal continues to be the creation of a fully integrated, comprehensive approach to handling all cases involving children and families,” In re: Report of the Family Court Steering Committee, 26 Fla.L.Weekly S287 (pending rehearing). The lengthy opinion, which includes a review of the history of the family court initiative, addresses each of the Family Court Steering Committee recommendations.

The Court identified five anticipated benefits to full implementation of the model: 1) reducing the impact of inconsistent orders on law enforcement, witnesses, and the parties; 2) encouraging agreed-upon resolution of issues, thereby reducing the judge’s time in each case; 3) reducing the need for further modification or enforcement proceedings; 4) reducing the overall time that a family is in court, thereby minimizing the disruption to the litigants and their employment; and 5) reducing the duplication of services.

The Family Court Steering Committee was directed to continue to develop details of the model family court and determine the resources necessary to implement the model statewide and to provide this detailed information to the Trial Court Budget Commission for assessing the budgetary requirements for statewide funding of the court system.

To view the opinion, go to www.flcourts.org. For more information, contact your local FCSC representative, Judge Raymond T. McNeal, Chair, or Jo Haynes Suhr, OSCA, at (850) 922-5691.

Family Court Steering Committee Conducts Assessment

In 2000, on behalf of the Family Court Steering Committee, the OSCA undertook a comprehensive assessment of the movement of dissolution of marriage cases through the court system. Included in this analysis were the factors affecting case flow and time frames and the system's responsiveness to the families and children it serves. This assessment was conducted by reviewing 2,449 simplified and regular dissolution cases filed between 1996 and 1998. Nearly 73,000 surveys were distributed to judges, lawyers, litigants, and other stakeholders. Findings from this study are guiding the Family Court Steering Committee in its efforts to design an effective case management system that includes intake and referral, differentiated case management and tracking, case monitoring, and alternative dispute resolution.

Findings from Assessment of Dissolution Cases

Files from the 2nd, 5th, 9th, 11th, 12th and 17th circuits were reviewed.

Test Your Assumptions About Dissolution Cases

Alternative Dispute Resolution Committees Reorganized

by Sharon Press, Dispute Resolution Center Director

On June 29, Chief Justice Charles T. Wells, in two administrative orders, created the Supreme Court Committee on Alternative Dispute Resolution Policy and the Supreme Court Committee on Alternative Dispute Resolution Rules. Both Committees will be staffed by the Dispute Resolution Center and Justice Fred Lewis will serve as the Supreme Court’s liaison to the Committees.

The ADR Policy Committee is the successor committee to the Supreme Court Committee on Mediation and Arbitration Training. The Training Committee, created in 1988 and chaired by circuit Judge Shawn Briese, developed the learning objectives and requirements for the Supreme Court certified mediation training programs and recommended the continuing mediator education requirements. Other members of the Training Committee included Alan Kahn, vice-chair; Paul Carland, Ruben Carrerou, Robin Davis, Greg Firestone, Don Peters, Laurie Riemer, and Kathy Reuter.

The ADR Policy Committee will be chaired by Judge Janet Ferris of the 2nd Judicial Circuit. Other members include Judge Theotis Bronson, 9th Judicial Circuit; Judge Burton Conner, 19th Judicial Circuit; Judge Robert Doyel, 10th Judicial Circuit; Judge Ronald Rothschild, 17th Judicial Circuit; Judge Deborah White-Labora, Dade County; Mike Bridenback, Trial Court Administrator, 13th Judicial Circuit; Judge Carol Taylor, 4th District Court of Appeal; and Ezelle Alexander, Pam McOwen, Sandra O’Brien, Kathy Reuter, Melvin Rubin, and Honggang Yang.

In the Administrative Order, Chief Justice Wells directed the ADR Policy Committee to:

1. Recommend for consideration changes in administrative policy and training standards that would enhance the goals of alternative dispute resolution.

2. Monitor trends in the field and identify the need for changes in rules that would enhance the goals of alternative dispute resolution in order to make recommendations to the Supreme Court Committee on ADR Rules.

3. Assess how courts are handling mediation cases, including where domestic violence is present, and develop recommendations for model practices for handling cases as appropriate.

4. Assess and develop, if appropriate, recommendations for handling criminal cases in a manner consistent with the principles of restorative justice.

5. Recommend ways that courts can empower litigants to resolve their own disputes through the development of communication and conflict resolution skills and the availability of a variety of dispute resolution forums.

6. Enable implementation of the policy directions of the Chief Justice’s Operational Plan specific to alternative dispute resolution.

7. Review requests from individuals seeking waivers of the qualifications required for arbitrators and mediators and make recommendations for or against certification to the Supreme Court.

8. Monitor the continuing mediation education, mentorship, and basic mediation and arbitration training requirements and recommend revisions as appropriate.

9. Coordinate with other Supreme Court Committees to further the ADR goals of the Court.

10. Perform such other assignments related to alternative dispute resolution as may be directed by the Chief Justice of the Supreme Court.

The ADR Rules Committee is the successor to the Mediation and Arbitration Rules Committee which was created in 1989 and chaired by Larry Watson. The Rules Committee was responsible for recommending the revisions to the Rules of Civil Procedures governing mediation and arbitration, the addition to the Florida Juvenile Rules for dependency mediation procedures, and the creation of the Florida Rules for Certified and Court-Appointed Mediators which contains the standards of conduct for mediators.

 tors and the rules of discipline. Other members of the Rules Committee included: Judge Lance Andrews, Mary Cadwell, Charles Castagna, John Cosgrove, Helen Gordon Davis, Dee Anna Farnell, Harry Goodheart, William Green, Robert Moberly, Mel Rubin, Arden Siegendorf, Linda Soud, and Bo Ward.

The ADR Rules Committee will be chaired by Judge Shawn Briese of the 7th Judicial Circuit, who is the former chair of the Supreme Court Committee on Mediation and Arbitration Training, and current member of the Mediator Qualifications Board. Other appointees to the newly organized Rules Committee include: Judge Tom Bateman, 2nd Judicial Circuit; Judge Linda Dakis, Dade County; Judge Lynn Tepper, 6th Judicial Circuit; Judge W. Matthew Stevenson, 4th DCA; Ruben Carrerou, Trial Court Administrator 11th Judicial Circuit; Robin Davis, Greg Firestone, Javier Perez-Abreu, Meah Tell, and Larry Watson.

In the Administrative Order, the Chief Justice directed the ADR Rules Committee to:

1. Monitor court rules governing ADR procedures and recommend to the Court necessary amendments.
2. Monitor legislation and trends in the field and when necessary and appropriate, recommend rules regarding the implementation of ADR procedures.
3. Recommend for consideration changes in administrative policies and statutes that would enhance the goals of alternative dispute resolution.
4. Evaluate the need for and, if appropriate, recommend rules to govern the appropriate use of mediation in delinquency and criminal cases.
5. Make such other recommendations as would improve the use of mediation, arbitration, and other alternatives to supplement the judicial process.

The meeting schedule for the new committees is being drafted and will be announced along with work plans for the year. Sharon Press is the director of the Florida Dispute Resolution Center (DRC) in the Office of the State Courts Administrator (OSCA). She is responsible for oversight and development of the court’s ADR program including the administrative aspects of the court-connected mediation program (e.g. certification, training, and discipline of mediators).

Sharon can be reached at (850) 921-2910 or by e-mail to press@flcourts.org.

Committee for Review and Notification of Criminal and Juvenile Legislation Meets

As reported in the May/June 2001 issue of Full Court Press, the Committee for Review and Notification of Criminal and Juvenile Legislation was established in March 2001 to identify new legislation that will require revisions to judicial forms, rules or jury instructions, and monitor the timely implementation of the new legislation. The committee was also charged with identifying new legislation that may warrant special continuing judicial education programs to assure adequate implementation of the new laws.

The committee met on May 18, 2001 at the Supreme Court in Tallahassee, with representatives from the Legislature and Governor’s office, as well as other state agencies, in attendance. The Committee reviewed 25 new pieces of legislation to determine what actions might be required by a judicial committee to implement them. It was determined that implementation issues arising from this year’s legislation are relatively modest in comparison to other legislative sessions, and there are no issues to compel the Committee to prepare proposed amendments to rules or forms and that those functions should be left to the existing committees.

According to Committee Chair Judge Chris Altenbernd, 2nd DCA, “I was very impressed with how hard everyone worked at this meeting. Especially as a first meeting, it exceeded my expectations.”

Next year’s meeting has tentatively been scheduled for Friday, April 19, 2002.
Chief Judge Farina Elected as Chair of the Circuit Judges Conference

The Florida Conference of Circuit Judges (FCCJ) elected as chair Chief Judge Joseph P. Farina, Eleventh Circuit, during its Annual Business Meeting at Marco Island. The conference also selected Chief Judge Belvin Perry, Jr., Ninth Circuit, as chair-elect, and Judge Nelly N. Khouzam, Sixth Circuit, as secretary/treasurer.

Chief Judge Farina believes that this year will be a historic one for the Florida State Courts system and he is looking forward to working with his peers both within the judicial branch and the other branches of government.

“As Chair, my priorities for this year are safeguarding our system, enhancing our profession, servicing our public and benefitting our members,” remarked Chief Judge Farina. He added that the FCCJ would continue to serve as liaison for the Supreme Court, the Legislature and the Governor.

County Conference Elects Officers and Sets Priorities

Palm Beach County Judge Jeffrey Colbath was elected president of the Florida Conference of County Court Judges at its annual business meeting in July. Also elected were Dade County Judge Beth Bloom, president-elect, Palm Beach County Judge Krista Marx, secretary, and Suwannee County Judge William Slaughter, treasurer. Also, Broward County Judge Peggy Gehl will serve as the County Court Courier editor.

Judge Colbath feels that the two most important issues for the Conference in 2001-2002 will be court funding related to Revision 7 implementation and educating Florida’s citizens about the role and function of the courts in their communities.

In regards to court funding, Judge Colbath said, “It is going to take a cooperative effort from all branches of government to ensure the transition to a state-funded court system is as seamless as possible, and the FCCCJ will strive to make that possible.”

At the same time, FCCCJ will serve as an informational resource to the citizens of Florida. “Developing broader relationships with those in our community who we are committed to serve is a great priority,” said Judge Colbath. “This includes our state Legislators. We are always available as a reference in matters concerning the judiciary and invite lawmakers into our courtrooms for an up-close look at what takes place on the bench.”

The Conference of County Court Judges of Florida consists of active and retired county judges serving in each of the 67 counties in Florida. Established in 1973 with less than 150 judges, the Conference has grown in membership to more than 270 judges. The goals of the Conference have always been to ensure the betterment of the judicial system, to improve court rules, procedures and practices and to provide a forum for the continuing education of all county judges. The Conference also provides a venue where county judges can meet and discuss mutual problems and formulate solutions.

The Conference’s leadership for 2001 - 2002 is:

Officers:

President:
Honorable Jeffrey Colbath - Palm Beach County
President-elect:
Honorable Beth Bloom - Dade County
Past President:

Sixteenth Circuit Celebrates Law Day

Students from Monroe County visited their local courthouses the week of May 1 to celebrate Law Day. Law Day was established by President Dwight D. Eisenhower in 1958 to “strengthen our great heritage of liberty, justice and equality under law.” In 1961, a joint resolution of Congress declared May 1st the official date of Law Day. This year marked the 44th annual nationwide observance of the event. On April 18, 2001, the Monroe County Board of County Commissioners presented the circuit with a Proclamation designating May 1 as Law Day throughout Monroe County.

This year’s theme was “Protecting the Best Interests of our Children.” The Monroe County Bar Association sponsored a poster contest for elementary students and an essay contest for middle and high school students. Savings bonds and medallions were awarded in all categories and all entries were hung at each courthouse location.

In addition to the contests, students participated in a variety of mock trials from Key Largo to Key West. In Plantation Key, Judge Regan Ptomey hosted 5th and 6th graders from Key Largo School and Plantation Key School for the trial of State v. Jane B. Good. They were also treated to a question and answer session from Judge Ptomey and the courtroom personnel who assisted with the trial. Also in Plantation Key, Judge Luis Garcia hosted middle school students from Key Largo School who were treated to a trip to the jury box, a jail tour and a question and answer session.

In Marathon, Vineyard Christian School watched morning arraignments and then had a question and answer session with Judge Ruth Becker and her staff. Stanley Swirlik Elementary 4th graders also visited with Judge Becker at the Marathon Courthouse. They performed the trial of Goldilocks dressed in costumes!

In Key West, Judge Mark Jones presided over the case of Andrew v. Springville School System, tried by students from Key West High School. Judge Susan Vernon hosted Girl Scout Troop 540 who performed the trial of Goldilocks. The girls were also treated to a question and answer session and even got to try on Judge Vernon’s robe! Judge Richard Payne hosted the 4th graders from Gerald Adams Elementary. They performed the trial of Goldilocks. So many kids wanted to participate that Judge Payne picked three juries.

Special thanks goes out to the State Attorney’s Office, the Public Defender’s Office and the Monroe County Sheriff’s Department for assisting throughout the Keys with the trials. Thanks also goes out to the Monroe County Bar Association for sponsoring the poster and essay contest and donating the prizes.

Florida’s Courts Implement Online Procurement System

The Office of the State Courts Administrator has become the first state-level agency to implement an online procurement system by joining with Demandstar.com. The new system comes at no cost to the courts, as vendors that participate with Demandstar.com pay an annual fee to participate on either a county, state or national basis.

Demandstar.com has two primary services. The first, Quotewire, allows government entities to notify vendors of informal solicitations along with product or service specifications. Vendors receive requests electronically and can respond online. By sending, receiving and automatically tabulating supplier responses, the time and effort necessary for both the agency and supplier is greatly reduced.

The second, Bidwire, notifies vendors of formal bid opportunities by either e-mail or fax. Vendors select standardized commodity codes to identify their type of business. Procurement staff select the commodity codes that relate to the goods or services that are to be purchased, insuring that there is an appropriate match with the vendors. Vendors wishing to respond can obtain bid documents from DemandStar.com and then submit proposals directly to the customer. In addition to notification, the Demandstar.com system allows for bids to be amended electronically and for bid awards to be posted on the Internet.

With more than 20,000 participating vendors, Demandstar.com increases competition, while decreasing administrative time and costs associated with bid and quotes notification. The system automatically provides a report on all vendors notified of a quote or bid solicitation. In addition, the Demandstar.com system maintains an up-to-date library of previously issued bids along with bid specification from hundreds of participating jurisdictions. Bid tabulation data from other jurisdictions can be used for budgeting and comparative price analyses.

The Demandstar.com program was made available to the district courts of appeal during the past year. Current plans call for all of the trial courts to be provided an orientation on the Demandstar.com system within the next two months.

For more information on Demandstar.com, contact Tom Long, OSCA’s Chief of General Services, 850-487-2373.

Supreme Court History

Justice Fred H. Davis

Fred Henry Davis, the 42nd Justice of the Florida Supreme Court, was remarkable for the youthful age at which he attained numerous state offices and honors. In 1914, while only six months out of high school, Davis received the highest score on the Florida Bar exam. In those days, a law-school diploma was not necessary to practice law, provided the applicant could demonstrate sufficient skill with legal principles. Davis was able to demonstrate such skill. However, he was so young that before he could be sworn as a lawyer, he had to petition a Florida judge to remove the legal disabilities attached to minors. His request was quickly granted and, at age eighteen, his remarkable legal career began.

He was elected to the Florida House of Representatives in 1921 while in his mid-20s. By age 33 Davis took office as the Speaker of the Florida House of Representatives -- a job he soon left to become Florida Attorney General, a cabinet-level executive office. He left two years later when he was appointed to the Florida Supreme Court.

By age 38, Justice Davis became the youngest Chief Justice in Florida history. In addition, he added yet another first to his career: Justice Davis is the first and only person to hold leadership positions in all three branches of Florida government. Amazingly, this was achieved at an age when many individuals have barely launched their careers.

Justice Davis remained a hardworking member of the Court until his death in 1937. During his tenure, he authored more than 1,000 opinions and was said to have spent so much time working at night that the night watchmen were loyal acquaintances.

Justice Major B. Harding Honored
NCSC President Roger K. Warren presents Justice Major B. Harding with the 2001 Distinguished Service Award as Chief Justice Charles T. Wells looks on.

Justice Major B. Harding was awarded the 2001 National Center for State Courts’ Distinguished Service Award at The Florida Bar’s Judicial Luncheon. Roger K. Warren, president of the National Center, presented Justice Harding with the award in recognition of his outstanding contributions to the administration of justice nationally and to the work of the National Center.

Justice Harding has been instrumental on a national level promoting innovation and reform in judicial processes. During Justice Harding’s tenure as Florida’s Chief Justice in 1998 - 2000, he was appointed to serve as Chair of the Conference of Chief Justices’ National Task Force on Problem Solving Courts. Under Chief Justice Harding’s leadership, the committee’s work led to adoption by the Conference of a resolution calling for “the broad integration of the principles and methods employed in problem-solving courts into the administration of justice...”

Marge Howard has left her position as Chief of Personnel Services at the Office of the State Courts Administrator to accept a career opportunity with Tallahassee Community College as Human Resources Director.

Effective August 1, 2001, David Pepper, Personnel Management Analyst will serve as Acting Chief of Personnel Services until Ms. Howard’s successor is chosen.

The Florida Academy of Professional Mediators (FAPM) will present Sharon Press, director of the Florida Dispute Resolution Center in the Office of the State Courts Administrator, with its Award of Merit at the Dispute Resolution Center’s Conference for Mediators and Arbitrators in August in Orlando. The award is the highest honor that the Florida Academy of Professional Mediators can bestow. It is awarded to that individual who has been deemed to have made an outstanding contribution to the growth, development and advancement of mediation in Florida. The selection committee is chaired by the president-elect of the Academy, a representative of his/her choosing, a representative of the president and all past recipients.

According to Gerry Levin, president of the FAPM, “When you think about the criteria for this award, Sharon Press comes to mind as a natural. For more than ten years she has been a dominating leader, a teacher, a politician (when she has to be), a mentor and a friend to mediators and to the advancement of the mediation process and the practice of mediation throughout the state. She is one of our own and the Academy congratulates her on receiving our highest honor.”
